Our good friends at Technicolor have met the exacting demands of modern projection in two ways.

The Technirama process provides the finest possible image on any gauge of film; fundamental to the process is a special version of the Delrama optical system similar to those we have supplied to so many cinemas.

Technicolor also produce 70 mm. prints. Some years ago they installed a pair of Philips Multi-purpose Projectors; they have just installed two more for their new preview theatre, fitted with remote control from the auditorium.
